The River at this point continues to rise steadily, and from all the upper streams we hear the same reports.

EVERY house keeper should have a copy of Prof. Blat's new Cook Book, for sale by J. H. Davis. Price $2.

HOME MANUFACTURE.—A. S. Anderson, the old veteran saddle advertiser in this paper, that he has resumed business on his own "hook." He has in store a large number of the best made saddles, etc., which he will sell at a bargain, and a number of competent workmen constantly engaged in making more.

All agree that the true interest of a town and community is to patronize home manufactures. Let us put it in practice, and throw a helping hand to A. S. Anderson.

PROVIDENCE.—Persons having furniture repaired can save time and money by calling at Oswald's Furniture Manufactory.

PASCHALL HOUSE DRAWING.—The St. Louis Republican of Monday says:

The rush here continues on Judge Landrum's office for the lucky number that will draw the Paschall House, or the magnificent residence of Capt. Dan. Able, in Memphis, or some of the five hundred splendid prizes in the Paschall House Association. The tickets are being disposed of very rapidly, and the probability of winning a fortune.

Certificates in this drawing may be had in this city of Mr. Mallory. A book for a club has already been opened, and certificates are being sold daily.

MATTHEWS for every description, and Spring bottoms for beds—one of the best inventors of the age—always on hand and for sale cheap by Chas. Oswald.

The Celebration of the 14th.
The celebration on the 14th instant, was one of which one people may well be proud. About 9 o'clock the scholars of the Methodist Sabbath School, formed a procession and marched to the Baptist Church, where they were joined by the Baptist Sunday School, and marched through the principal streets of the town to the Court-house yard. By the time the procession arrived at the place designated, a large concourse of the beauty and intelligence of the community had assembled to witness the interesting ceremonies.

The exercises were opened by the coronation of Miss Sallie Bailey as Queen of May. The speech of the Queen was strikingly beautiful and appropriate, and her personal appearance and attire fully entitled her to the distinction of holding the scepter. A thing of beauty is a joy forever; and any girl Sallie live to realize to all her friends the joys we expect from her. The time will come when she can command the unconditional surrender of gallant subjects, and whom it will require by oath of allegiance to bind to her gentle sway.

The Maids of Honor attendant upon the Queen were Misses Lou. Steele, Millicent Steele, Sallie Davis, Ida Fuqua, Lucy Anderson, and Annie Catlett, all little girls about the same age of the Queen, and representing respectively, Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter, Night, and Morning; and we are confident that we only express the sentiment of every one present when we say that a brighter galaxy of Beauty, Grace and Loveliness cannot be found in the broad extent of our State so celebrated for pretty girls. Most worthy they graced the Court of their Queen whose dignity and grace proved her worthy of the Crown.

The addresses of Miss Lou. Steele, representing Spring; Miss Millicent Steele, Summer; Sallie Davis, Autumn; and Miss Ida Fuqua, Winter; were well written, read very correctly, and deserve especial commendation. The manner of each was very creditable, and their attire very appropriate.

Miss Lucy Anderson, as Night, with her flowing tresses, and black dress, studied with burnished steel stars, personated Night to perfection. The first man who took "a little pomp" with all her stately train, "The night" returned her throne.

Miss Annie Catlett, next came forward, representing Morning, and holding stretched over her head, a scarf of white and red illusion, with that bright face of hers, looked as bright as the Morning, she stood there to represent. As we beheld her we thought,

"Now from night's home, the glorious day breaks forth, And seems to bludge from the setting stars."

THE FAIRY QUEEN—Miss Bettie Steele, as Queen of the Fairies, with a number of little girls as Guardian Fairies, made a fairy scene, indeed. All of them were dressed in white, with their dresses richly fastened with flowers.

Master Willie Steele, acted as herald of the court, and Master Chas. Wilson, as page.

After the conclusion of these ceremonies, Mr. J. B. Harris, delivered a well written and beautiful address, designed especially for the ears of the Sabbath School scholars, in which he fully sustained his well earned character as a clear and forcible speaker.

Judge T. B. Logan, being called for, delivered a short, and appropriate impromptu address, followed by Rev. Mr. Johnson, who entertained the audience in some beautiful and well timed remarks.

At the conclusion of these addresses the whole audience by invitation, repaired to the dinner prepared for the occasion, after partaking of which the children, and other folks, scattered through the woods and over the hills, in general enjoyment.

At night the ladies gave a concert and tableaux exhibition, which was attended by a large and most loving audience. The music and performance throughout gave entire satisfaction, and reflected the highest credit upon all engaged. We have not space to speak particularly as to the merit of those engaged. All will pardon, however, a reference to the happy and felicitous manner in which Mrs. Simpson rendered Corporal Schnaps and Niagara Falls, in character. Repeated ovations from the house greeted both pieces. Also, Master Joe Kirkpatrick, as representative of the "dark-hued brethren" in the Congress of the nations, took the whole "house down," and deserves especial commendation. Also, we shall assume the duty of returning the thanks of all to Mr. R. E. Miles, for the general management and arrangement—everything went off promptly, smoothly, without any halt or hindrance, and to Mrs. A. D. Kingman, for the excellent instrumental accompaniments on the occasion. But we can not mention all the deserving. The following was the programme on the occasion:
